Beyond Hallucinations cuts through the hype surrounding artificial intelligence to explain what today's AI really is—and what it isn't. Instead of technical jargon or bold predictions, it offers a clear way to understand how AI generates answers, why it can sound convincing while being wrong, and what "hallucinations" reveal about its limits.

Written for curious readers, not engineers, this book helps you approach AI with sharper judgment and healthier skepticism. It explores where AI excels, where it fails, and why trusting it blindly can be just as dangerous as ignoring it altogether.

If you've ever wondered whether AI is thinking, guessing, or simply reflecting us back to ourselves, Beyond Hallucinations is where that understanding begins.

"AI is changing the world and even the way we think, and this book brilliantly points out the pitfalls and solutions that make some people still reluctant to fully explore its potential. It's an awesome tool, as long as we use it actively and properly and this is what Beyond Hallucinations guides us to do."

— Gareth Powell, technology writer

A SEA OF TEARS

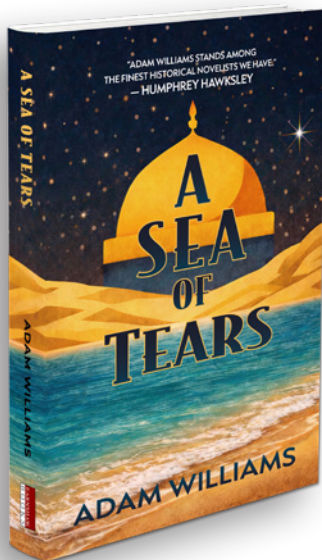

Adam Williams

Samuel, a Jewish doctor versed in alchemy, and Gregory, his English apprentice, are investigating a terrifying plague. The Nile has turned red with blood and fish are dying.

Near a small island, they wrangle a badly torn body from the jaws of a crocodile—but was this beast the killer? Samuel suspects foul play yet the authorities block his efforts to find the truth at every step. Ignoring warnings from people in high places, and with nothing more to guide him than his scientific method, Samuel persists in his quest, especially after a series of gruesome murders seem to confirm his early suspicion.

Little does he know that the secret he will stumble on could shake the empire.

Assassins are on the prowl. A child is being hunted. Who finds him first will change the course of history.

“A brilliant tale of how one man’s determination to solve what he believes is a murder leads him into ever more danger in 11th century Egypt as it turns out that the future of the mighty state hangs, as does his own life, in the balance. I know of no other historical novelist who could match Adam Williams’ depiction of such a gripping, colourful and complicated story.”

THE GALAXY'S LAST RIDE

In 2020, Colin Flahive packed up his aging Galaxy motorcycle and rode 2,500 kilometers north through the changing rural landscapes of western China. Behind him were pandemic lockdowns, a friend's sudden death, and twenty years of life in China coming undone. Ahead lay the Sichuan highlands, vanishing villages, and a government-mandated scrap date for the two-wheeled machine that carried him through it all.

Part motorcycle memoir, part cultural meditation, The Galaxy's Last Ride is an unflinching reflection on loss, impermanence, and the unexpected grace found in riding straight into the unknown. Flahive's off-road bike takes him along horse trails and highways, retracing how village life has changed along a route he first explored over a decade earlier. Along the way, he tries to reconcile the journeys of his past with a present-day China racing forward at breakneck speed, searching for meaning in grief, fatherhood, and what it means to build a life in a place that refuses to stand still.

"Some writers visit China. Colin Flahive stayed. For nearly three decades he has built a life in Yunnan, running businesses and raising a family. After years of traveling extensively through rural provinces in China's southwest and navigating the realities of living there long term, he shares the stories of the people and places that have made him a participant in communities far beyond the expat bubble."

– Brian Eyles, Author Last Days of the Mighty Mekong

THE REVELATION

Yun Rou

Humanity has always believed it is alone. It was wrong.

Set in 1992, The Revelation is a prescient science-fiction thriller by award-winning author Yun Rou, told from humanity's future—after the Earth discovers it is no longer alone, and no longer the same.

Extraordinary children begin to appear—healing the incurable, evolving beyond known biology. At the same time, governments are forced to admit the truth they had long concealed: extraterrestrial visitors are real, and have been present for millennia. By 1992, secrecy collapses, and the world enters what later became known as the Revelation.

At its centre are Dawn Washington, a child who embodies humanity's possible future, and Barron Poole, a controversial radio host drawn into catastrophic encounters, military cover-ups, and forces beyond Earth. Their intertwined lives help shape the future of a planet struggling to move from fear to understanding.

Gui Gu Zi, The Philosopher of the Ghost Vale, is a classic Chinese manual dating back over two millennia, which unveils the ancient art of high-stakes lobbying.

A parallel to Sun Tzu's Art of War, this powerful work is the earliest known guide to psycholinguistics and the science of persuasion. Rooted in ancient Chinese philosophy and medicine, it offers a systematic approach to understanding and manipulating human behavior.

Originally written for lobbyists seeking to influence despotic rulers, Gui Gu Zi reveals methods of psychological manipulation so potent that Chinese emperors kept it secret for generations. It teaches how to decode a person's true motivations, vulnerabilities, and fears, advocating deep psychological profiling. The text also introduces strategies of persuasion and dissuasion, showing how to shape expectations by presenting both positive and negative ideas.

Drawing from ancient concepts of self-mastery, Gui Gu Zi emphasizes the importance of maintaining inner calm and composure, guiding the reader to achieve optimal mental performance under pressure. Whether for diplomacy, negotiation, or leadership, the timeless wisdom in this book is as relevant today as it was in ancient China—making it an invaluable resource for mastering the dynamics of power and influence in the modern world.

GONE...

BJ Smith

A teenage girl vanishes without a trace.

No ransom demand. No body. No witnesses.

Did she run away with a secret boyfriend? Was she kidnapped? Or is something far worse waiting to be uncovered?

Her parents are frantic, trapped between hope and dread. The police move methodically, but not urgently enough. With every passing hour, the chances of finding her alive slip away.

Enter Ben John—former elite officer, now a private investigator who knows that the first version of a story is rarely the truth. As he digs beneath the surface of the city of Hong Kong, secrets begin to fracture the façade of a respectable family and a tightly knit community.

Lies multiply. Timelines collapse. And someone is watching his every move.

In a city where reputation is everything and silence can be bought, Ben must uncover what really happened before “Gone” becomes “Murdered”...

Because the truth is out there. And it doesn't want to be found.

“...a riveting riddle”

IN A STRANGE LAND

Chris Ruffle

Here is a collection of joined-up stories for these disjointed times, for the exiled and the out-of-place. Have you ever felt you are not where you should be? Rome's favourite love poet does; he must now entertain a bunch of hairy barbarians. A blood-stained dictator finds himself making breakfast for his nine youngest children in a Novotel. On the Edgware Road a Syrian ophthalmologist tells his girlfriend about a sudden career change whilst, on the other side of the city, a stock-market darling explains how his sudden flight abroad is all part of the strategy. France's chic empress languishes in the damp Kent countryside—how did it come to this? In Beijing, an Ulsterman's friendship with the Empress Dowager is not going to prevent him being massacred. On the Western front, a Cumbrian gunner celebrates, finally, his imminent demobilization...

BOOK OF LOST DREAMS

Joseph Yen

When the tides of history crash against the quiet shores of an ordinary life, the results can be both strange and devastating. Joseph Yen grew up in the shadow of civil war, revolution, and unrelenting political upheaval. Born into the household of a wealthy Shanghai industrialist, he might have expected a life of privilege and stability. Instead, the great storms of the age—national and domestic alike—swept him into a world of uncertainty.

Moving with his mother to Beijing, the young Joseph witnessed the Communist victory and the radical transformations of the 1950s through the curious, unblinking eyes of a child. As he advanced through school, he felt both the thrill of political change and the tightening grip of ideology, alongside the persecution of friends and neighbours. Yet his private world was no less vivid: friendships, an awakening love for music and literature, and the first stirrings of his sexuality shaped his inner life.

A MAN OF EXQUISITE HONOUR

Brendan Cook

From the trenches of World War I to the heart of revolutionary China, Harold J. Timperley bore witness to some of the most turbulent events of the 20th Century. As a foreign correspondent, he exposed the brutality of Japan's war in China, risking his life to document the horrors of the Nanking Massacre. As a propagandist for the Chinese government of the day, he helped shape global understanding of the conflict, and later as a diplomat, he walked the razor's edge between impartiality and conviction during Indonesia's fight for independence.

THE IRISH IN HONG KONG

Mark O'Neill

Since its foundation, Irish people have played an extraordinary role in the construction and development of Hong Kong, in government, the army, police, judiciary, finance and in civil society – schools, hospitals, churches and welfare institutions. Ireland provided nine Governors, five Chief Justices, nuns who cured the city of tuberculosis and priests and ministers who founded high-quality schools that have transformed the lives of thousands of Hong Kong people. They are still flourishing today and are the choice of many Hong Kong parents. In sport, also, the Irish have made a great contribution to the territory – in racing, the Rugby Sevens and, most famously, Siobhan Haughey, the first Hong Kong athlete to win four Olympic medals.

PLUM BLOSSOMS IN PRIMARY

Richard Pratt

In China, poetry has always been considered the supreme art form, and the great poets of the past are national heroes. From their first weeks of Primary School, children learn works from a millennium and a half ago and this shared cultural foundation is key to understanding the country and its people. How better to gain this knowledge than the way the Chinese do?

‘Plum Blossoms in Primary’ takes you on a journey through China’s national school textbooks studied by every child in the country and, in an accessible style, introduces the poems, the poets, their context, and their significance. It’s all laid out such that non-specialists can appreciate the works in the original language. This book is important for anyone interested in China, or in poetry and, while aimed at the general reader, will also be of value to students of Chinese and as a text on World Literature courses.

Earnshaw Books is a book publishing house founded in 2003 and based in Hong Kong, dedicated to publishing books on China and beyond that help to enrich the understanding of China's history and culture. It was founded by Graham Earnshaw, a businessman, writer and musician with several decades of experience in the China world. He is well-known for his deep perspective on Chinese affairs, having first visited the China mainland in 1978. Over the years, he has been to every province and region of the country and has a deep respect for Chinese history, language and traditional culture. He moved to Hong Kong in 1973, learned to speak Cantonese and to read Chinese and worked as a reporter on the South China Morning Post. In 1976, he joined Reuters News Agency and worked in the Hong Kong and London bureaus before being assigned in 1979 to Beijing. He served as Beijing Bureau chief for Reuters 1985-1987, Tokyo Chief Correspondent 1987-1989, and was the Reuters Asian Editor from 1990 to 1995, responsible for all reporting from Pakistan to New Zealand. He then set up his own company in Shanghai, SinoMedia Ltd.

He has written and published a number of books, including On Your Own in China (1984), Tales of Old Shanghai (2008) and an account of his continuing walk across China, The Great Walk of China (2010) and The Formosa Fraud (2017) about George Psalmanazar. His translation of the Jin Yong kung fu novel The Book and The Sword was published by Oxford University Press in 2004. His Chinese name, 晏格文, was chosen by Jin Yong (金庸). He set up China's first rock band in the early 1980s, and was the first foreign journalist to ever witness a sky burial in Tibet.

He has recorded a number of albums of his own songs, including Leap of Faith (1996), The Red Album (2011), and The Tao of Music (2013).

He speaks in public regularly, in English and in Chinese, on a variety of topics, including the Chinese economy and life in rural China. He has addressed MBA and other student classes at many of China's top universities, including Tsinghua, Fudan and Nanjing. He speaks Mandarin and Cantonese fluently and his English is said to be acceptable. His personal website is www.earnshaw.com. Email: graham@earnshaw.com
