Can you reinvent your life as a middle-aged American woman in faraway China?

On the surface, forty-something Wendy Van Breest's expat life in Beijing is to be envied—she is married to an affluent business executive, has a gifted daughter and spends her days as a woman of leisure. But her life slowly starts to unravel, and unassuming Wendy is suddenly faced with hard choices after her quirky best friend, Angie, suggests she get a new haircut from a young and handsome Chinese barber and reluctantly reveals some dark secrets. Wendy sees her expat bubble burst as she is forced to radically reevaluate her life.

Set against the backdrop of contemporary Beijing's glitzy Sanlitun bars, the fast-paced central business district and the traditional narrow back alleys of China's capital, Pretzels and Pythons explores what it means to grapple with one's existential fears after falling illicitly in love in a foreign land.

Pretzels and Pythons is a cross-cultural romance novel with suspense and soap opera-like elements that begs the question: Should you leave your comfort zone?

"A fast-paced, thought-provoking romance novel that will keep you turning the pages late into the night."

— Ella Hong Zhao, fashion illustrator

SURVIVING THE LISBON MARU

Andrew Salmon

A forgotten World War II atrocity. A remarkable survival story. A tribute to courage, endurance, and humanity.

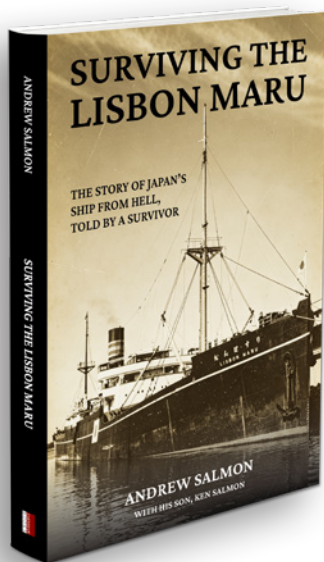

In October 1942, the Japanese transport ship Lisbon Maru carrying 1,816 British prisoners of war from occupied Hong Kong toward forced labour camps in Japan was torpedoed off the coast of China by an American submarine. The POWs were trapped below deck in sealed holds and abandoned to their fate. Hundreds drowned, suffocated, or were machine-gunned as they tried to escape. It is one of the darkest and least-known tragedies of the Pacific War.

Among the survivors was Andrew Salmon—a Cockney boy who joined the British Army at fourteen, served in Hong Kong, and endured the horrors of Japanese POW camps, the sinking of the Lisbon Maru and the years in labour camps afterwards. Drawing on Andrew Salmon's diaries, letters, and unfinished manuscript, his son Ken Salmon reconstructs an extraordinary story of suffering, survival, comradeship, and resilience.

Surviving the Lisbon Maru is both a gripping personal memoir and an important historical record. It tells of the terror inside the sinking ship, the bravery of prisoners trying to save each other, and the courage of Chinese fishermen from the Zhoushan islands who risked their own lives to rescue survivors from the sea.

"By presenting the full story of the Lisbon Maru through the eyes and life of a single survivor, this vivid account of the tragedy saves all those on board from obscurity."

— Tony Banham, historian and author of The Sinking of the Lisbon Maru

A timeless collection of China's most beloved folktales—retold, reimagined, and brought vividly to life. In The Butterfly Lovers, Allison Yu presents a rich tapestry of classic Chinese love stories, from the tragic devotion of Liang Shanbo and Zhu Yingtai to the enduring bonds of the Cowherd and the Weaver Girl, and the mystical passion of the Legend of the White Snake. These tales, passed down through generations, explore the universal pursuit of happiness—its risks, its sacrifices, and its deeply human contradictions. Blending elegant storytelling with thoughtful reflection, Yu explores how these stories differ from—and resonate with—Western traditions. Here, happiness is not fixed or fated, but shaped through relationships, choices, and the delicate balance between personal desire and social obligation. Both enchanting and insightful, this collection invites readers to rediscover ancient stories that continue to speak powerfully to modern lives.

“A selection of some of the most important Chinese folk tales, beautifully retold with the added pleasure of commentary from the author that explores important questions in a way that gives the reader the sense of being a partner in an unusually rewarding conversation. What a treat!”

— Richard Pratt, author of Plum Blossoms in Primary

MR HISTORIAN OF THE STRANGE

Susan Wan Dolling

Even in this a thrill-a-minute age of ours, stories from this 17th Century Chinese classic still manage to shock and delight. The author, Pu Songling, called himself “Mr. Historian of the Strange” and gave the collection the enigmatic title of Liaozhai Zhiyi, which might be light-heartedly translated as “A Record of Paranormal Stories Told to Me in My Studio Where People Come to Chew the Fat.” The original stories vary in length from one-sentence observations of scientific phenomena to a mix of folk tales, cautionary tales, fairy tales, and short stories that might fall under the descriptions of magical realism, social satire or psychological narratives. The present volume of 36 short story translations are thematically organized under the headings of “Favor and Gratitude,” “Reap What You Sow,” and “Dreams and Obsessions.”

“Thanks to Susan Wan Dolling, we have a new translation of Mr. Historian’s stories, organized thematically and with notes and commentary that make the stories truly accessible to English-language readers.”

– Dr. Laura Gibbs, author of Aesop’s Fables: A New Translation
(Oxford World Classics)

“Susan Wan Dolling’s new translation brings her knowledge of Chinese literature and her poetic sense of language to Pu Songling’s masterpiece, a collection of Qing Dynasty ghost stories. Mr. Historian of the Strange is an essential addition to the library of any book lover interested in Chinese literature.”

The Journal of the Royal Asiatic Society China, Vol. 85 No. 1 (2025), brings together scholarly essays and personal narratives exploring the history, culture, and people of China and Asia, published by Earnshaw Books on behalf of the Royal Asiatic Society China.

The cover story, by Chinese photo collector Zou Dehuai, tells the little-known story of Hazel Ying Lee, Katherine Cheung, and Lee Ya-Ching—three Chinese-born women who broke through racial and gender barriers to become pilots in the 1930s, flying in the face of war and prejudice alike. Other highlights include Paul French's account of four decades of junk traffic on Shanghai's Huangpu River, tracing the city's economic and political upheavals through customs records; John Villar's essay on Shanghai as a "patchwork quilt" of clashing architectural eras; and Alan Babington-Smith's investigation into a suspected fake Ming ceramic pot and the historical mystery inscribed on it. Edith Terry profiles legendary Hong Kong antiques dealer Susan Chen, while Lukas Gajdos recounts the China adventures of Central European envoy Gottfried Ernst Ludwig over a century ago. The issue closes with a review of David Daokui Li's China's World View and a tribute to the late Tess Johnston, a founding figure of the modern RAS China.

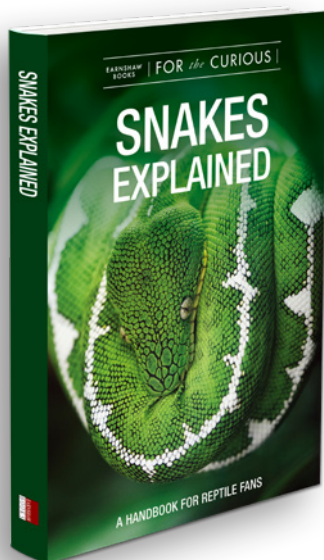

SNAKES EXPLAINED

Earnshaw Books

They've outlasted the dinosaurs. They live on every continent except Antarctica. And despite appearing in more nightmares than almost any other animal, most snakes are harmless, helpful, and endlessly fascinating.

Snakes Explained: A Handbook for Reptile Fans is a comprehensive guide to the world of snakes, written for the curious reader who wants real answers. Covering over 3,000 species from thread snakes to giant pythons, the book takes you through everything that makes these animals so extraordinary — how they move, how they sense heat, how they hunt and digest prey far larger than themselves, and how they've adapted to thrive in deserts, rainforests, oceans, and backyards.

This handbook is for anyone who's ever been curious about these remarkable reptiles—whether you're a seasoned enthusiast or just starting to look twice before you step.

BEYOND HALLUCINATIONS

Marshall S. Martineau

Beyond Hallucinations cuts through the hype surrounding artificial intelligence to explain what today's AI really is—and what it isn't. Instead of technical jargon or bold predictions, it offers a clear way to understand how AI generates answers, why it can sound convincing while being wrong, and what “hallucinations” reveal about its limits.

Written for curious readers, not engineers, this book helps you approach AI with sharper judgment and healthier skepticism. It explores where AI excels, where it fails, and why trusting it blindly can be just as dangerous as ignoring it altogether.

If you've ever wondered whether AI is thinking, guessing, or simply reflecting us back to ourselves, Beyond Hallucinations is where that understanding begins.

A SEA OF TEARS

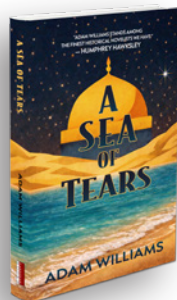

Adam Williams

Samuel, a Jewish doctor versed in alchemy, and Gregory, his English apprentice, are investigating a terrifying plague. The Nile has turned red with blood and fish are dying.

Near a small island, they wrangle a badly torn body from the jaws of a crocodile—but was this beast the killer? Samuel suspects foul play yet the authorities block his efforts to find the truth at every step. Ignoring warnings from people in high places, and with nothing more to guide him than his scientific method, Samuel persists in his quest, especially after a series of gruesome murders seem to confirm his early suspicion.

Little does he know that the secret he will stumble on could shake the empire.

Assassins are on the prowl. A child is being hunted. Who finds him first will change the course of history.

THE GALAXY'S LAST RIDE

Colin Thomas Flahive

In 2020, Colin Flahive packed up his aging Galaxy motorcycle and rode 2,500 kilometers north through the changing rural landscapes of western China. Behind him were pandemic lockdowns, a friend's sudden death, and twenty years of life in China coming undone. Ahead lay the Sichuan highlands, vanishing villages, and a government-mandated scrap date for the two-wheeled machine that carried him through it all.

Part motorcycle memoir, part cultural meditation, The Galaxy's Last Ride is an unflinching reflection on loss, impermanence, and the unexpected grace found in riding straight into the unknown. Flahive's off-road bike takes him along horse trails and highways, retracing how village life has changed along a route he first explored over a decade earlier.

THE ART OF PERSUASION

Stephen Selby

Gui Gu Zi, The Philosopher of the Ghost Vale, is a classic Chinese manual dating back over two millennia, which unveils the ancient art of high-stakes lobbying.

A parallel to Sun Tzu's Art of War, this powerful work is the earliest known guide to psycholinguistics and the science of persuasion. Rooted in ancient Chinese philosophy and medicine, it offers a systematic approach to understanding and manipulating human behavior.

Originally written for lobbyists seeking to influence despotic rulers, Gui Gu Zi reveals methods of psychological manipulation so potent that Chinese emperors kept it secret for generations. It teaches how to decode a person's true motivations, vulnerabilities, and fears, advocating deep psychological profiling.

BJ Smith

A teenage girl vanishes without a trace.

No ransom demand. No body. No witnesses.

Earnshaw Books is a book publishing house founded in 2003 and based in Hong Kong, dedicated to publishing books on China and beyond that help to enrich the understanding of China's history and culture. It was founded by Graham Earnshaw, a businessman, writer and musician with several decades of experience in the China world. He is well-known for his deep perspective on Chinese affairs, having first visited the China mainland in 1978. Over the years, he has been to every province and region of the country and has a deep respect for Chinese history, language and traditional culture. He moved to Hong Kong in 1973, learned to speak Cantonese and to read Chinese and worked as a reporter on the South China Morning Post. In 1976, he joined Reuters News Agency and worked in the Hong Kong and London bureaus before being assigned in 1979 to Beijing. He served as Beijing Bureau chief for Reuters 1985-1987, Tokyo Chief Correspondent 1987-1989, and was the Reuters Asian Editor from 1990 to 1995, responsible for all reporting from Pakistan to New Zealand. He then set up his own company in Shanghai, SinoMedia Ltd.

He has written and published a number of books, including On Your Own in China (1984), Tales of Old Shanghai (2008) and an account of his continuing walk across China, The Great Walk of China (2010) and The Formosa Fraud (2017) about George Psalmanazar. His translation of the Jin Yong kung fu novel The Book and The Sword was published by Oxford University Press in 2004. His Chinese name, 晏格文, was chosen by Jin Yong (金庸). He set up China's first rock band in the early 1980s, and was the first foreign journalist to ever witness a sky burial in Tibet.

He has recorded a number of albums of his own songs, including Leap of Faith (1996), The Red Album (2011), and The Tao of Music (2013).

He speaks in public regularly, in English and in Chinese, on a variety of topics, including the Chinese economy and life in rural China. He has addressed MBA and other student classes at many of China's top universities, including Tsinghua, Fudan and Nanjing. He speaks Mandarin and Cantonese fluently and his English is said to be acceptable. His personal website is www.earnshaw.com. Email: graham@earnshaw.com
